LCWRA - Chris went through

Linking periods - from <sup>April</sup> 2017 - if getting it pre this date retain entitlement to additional money

- 3 mths waiting period - from when they 1st provide med cert (but actually it could be when they notify ie when they put a note on the journal).
- Sometimes a new assessment on a previously refused claim (deterioration) could be treated as notification
- If transferring from ESA will automatically be transferred (both managed + chosen to go on UC)
- Or if terminally ill no waiting period
- LCWRA linked for 6 mths from previous claim
- Or from joint to couple (or visa-versa)
- No fixed period between assessment - generally 18 mths - 24 mths
- Can only get new assessment where there's been a deterioration or new condition

- main thing is to initially get DWPLUC to agree to do the reassessment once they've agreed it's just administrative delays.
- There is also a provision where having/being treated as having LCWRA will have a detrimental health <sup>effect</sup> on physical/mental health - ~~documented in the Batters~~ substantial "risk" can get LCWRAG
- pregnant + harm to baby
- getting PIP makes no difference (but perhaps mention it) - could be indication of a deterioration
